Consumers Credit Union Offers Free Seminar To Introduce New E-statements Capability; Public Invited

Waukegan, IL, February 20, 2007: Consumers Credit Union (CCU) is proud to announce the launch of its new E-Statements capabilities, beginning March 10, 2007. E-Statements, or electronic statements, will allow Members to receive their monthly/quarterly statements online. The new platform is the latest example of how the Member-owned credit union is working with Members to enhance the safety and security of their information. CCU will introduce E-Statements at a no-cost seminar on Tuesday, March 6. The seminar is open to the public.

“E-Statements offer an exciting new service for Members,” noted Sean M. Rathjen, CCU President. “E-Statements allow Members to access account information securely and worry-free, right from their computer. They are safe and secure, because access to E-Statements is done through password protected access to a secured server – providing much more protection than having a paper statement sitting in your mailbox until “someone” picks it up. Members will love the convenience and enjoy faster, more reliable delivery of the statements.”

Consumers Credit Union’s no-cost Seminar provides details about E-Statements, how to access E-Statements whenever it’s convenient and details about addition benefits of using E-Statements. The seminar will also show Members how to how to save time and money by safely and securely paying bills online and how to have regular monthly bills delivered electronically. Bill Payment is another free service offered by Consumers Credit Union.

This exciting free seminar will be led by Sid Haas of LetterKraft-Creative Services, Consumers Credit Union’s statement partner. Sid will provide all the information outlined above and will be happy to answer all your questions about E-Statements and Bill Payment.
